

Jay Nussbaum Remembered

Jay Harris Nussbaum, Executive

Jay Harris Nussbaum, who had a long career as an executive at Xerox, Oracle and Citigroup before co-founding Agilex Technologies Inc., died Aug. 31, 2019 at age 75.

Nussbaum, along with entrepreneur Robert E. LaRose, founded Agilex in 2007 with the goal of providing mission and technology consulting, software and solution development, and system integration services. He and his company received numerous awards, and the company grew to more than $300 million in revenue before being acquired by Accenture Federal Services in 2015.

Nussbaum also served on a number of boards, including the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association and Northrop Grumman Corp. Nussbaum most recently served as chairman of Topline Healthcare and chairman and CEO of Drone Aviation Corp.

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Nussbaum graduated from the University of Maryland and was residing in Great Falls, Virginia, at the time of his death.

The son of Ira and Ruth Nussbaum, he was preceded in death by his first wife, Patricia Newman Nussbaum. He is survived by wife Susan Nussbaum; son, Drew Nussbaum and Drew's wife, Meridith; six grandchildren, Natalie, Julia, William, Cade, Knox and Sloan; sister, Ellen Entis and her husband, Lawrence; brother-in-law, Gary Newman; and several nieces and nephews.